CHELTENHAM ANNUAIRE
FOR 1838.

ADVERTISEMENT.

WHEN the first number of the Cheltenham Annuaire was published in the January of last year, its Editor, though sanguine, did not certainly expect it would meet with the cordial welcome which it experienced, or have accorded to it so large a share of public approbation as it received. Throughout its native town the general opinion appeared to be, that there wanted but one other feature in its contents to render it complete as a local Directory, viz., a List of the Tradespeople. This deficiency has in the present number been supplied, as well as many other additions made, which it was suggested would be improvements; such, for instance, as the Lists of the Members of Parliament for Great Britain, and a variety of others having immediate reference to the county. The introduction of these has, however, seriously trenched upon that portion of the work devoted last year to original Essays, as without considerably increasing its size, and consequently its price also, it became impossible to devote as much space to this portion of the Work as was done in the first instance. The papers having thus become the smaller division annuaire, have in the present instance been the end instead of at the commencement of the Almanac, for the sake of more ready referring the van. The entire arrangement has, in some degree, been altered; whether for the better or not, the reader must decide. A comparison of the table of contents of the present with the last volume, will at once show the additions upon many points of local interest which this year have been made, in order to afford the most ready and fullest information, not merely to the residents and visitors of Cheltenham, but to the county at large.

It remains now therefore to be seen whether the original or the altered features and arrangement of the CHELTENHAM ANNUAIRE be most approved. The object of the author being to render his work as extensively useful as possible, it will be his endeavour in future to adopt that plan and select those subjects which are most generally acceptable to his sub-

NOTES

ON

THE PAST AND PRESENT STATE OF CHELTENHAM.

BY THE EDITOR.

PRIOR to the visit of King George the Third and the Royal Family in 1788, Cheltenham was an obscure and almost a nameless village; for though in ages long gone by it is reported to have returned a member to parliament, it was not considered of sufficient importance even to be named in the popular Gazetteers published before that event occurred. Next to its own sanative claims, which assuredly would have, sooner or later, forced themselves upon public attention, the place is indebted for much of its present celebrity to Sir George Baker, the Physician of George the Third, and by whose advice it was that His Majesty had recourse to the Cheltenham Waters. The restoration of the royal patient stamped the Spa at once with a reputation which otherwise it would have taken years to have acquired; and even to this day it might have continued in comparative obscurity, the annual resort of at most some three or four hundred invalids,* instead of being the glorious and unrivalled town it is, the fixed residence of nearly forty thousand inhabitants,† and the yearly resort of thousands and tens of thousands of visitors, whose numbers have been steadily increasing, until at length they have become literally incalculable.

* The reason publicly assigned for the appointment of a Master of the Ceremonies for the town in 1780 was, that the number of visitors in that year amounted to 360.

This immense increase is in a great measure to be ascribed to the enterprising spirit of those who speculated upon its growing fortunes, and who struck out a new path in the formation and developement of the Town, rendering it, as it progressively advanced, progressively beautiful. To the early proprietors of the various spas this remark is especially applicable; the taste and liberality which they exercised in the alterations and improvements of their respective properties evinced a determination, on their part, to make the place as attractive to strangers as possible; that those who, in the first instance, came to it for their health, might be induced, by the superiority of its accommodations and other local advantages, to select it as their permanent residence. The proprietors of the King's Old Well were the first to set the example, by planting in 1793 the magnificent avenue of elms, which yet remains* the glory of our town, and the admiration of all who have ever honored it with their presence. The advantages likely to arise from imposing approaches to their spas were not lost upon the late Henry Thompson, Esq.,

† See Table of Population.

* How many years longer these magnificent trees will be permitted to remain is matter of melancholy conjecture, since within the last twelvemonth several of the finest have been cut down to form an opening into the Bay's Hill property, recently set out as building ground, and we fear the only guarantee the town has for the preservation of the remainder, is the want of capital on the part of those who have speculated on the more profitable conversion of the land to building purposes.

and T. Henney, Esq. ; hence, when these gentlemen projected the Montpellier and Imperial Pump Rooms, they not merely formed broad and handsome drives leading thereto, but intersected their contiguous properties in every direction with walks and promenades, which they planted on either side with forest trees and shrubs of the choicest descriptions. These, as they grew up, necessarily forced back the buildings, which were continually being erected on the main lines of thoroughfare, to a distance from the road, and have effectually preserved Cheltenham, through all its advances, from assuming the close and crowded appearance common to other towns.

Those who have succeeded to the possession of the property, have, happily for the town, fully carried out the designs of the original projectors. Not called upon to lay out their ground in walks and green-wood avenues, they have rather aimed at giving life and animation to those which their predecessors had so extensively planned ; and by the introduction and naturalization of a variety of elegant amusements, in connection with the spas, have added charms and delights which could not fail of attracting to the place a large proportion of those who have the means and disposition to join in " the pursuits of pleasure."

As we have claimed for the proprietors of the different spas the merit of having, by their exertions, done more for the encrease and advancement of the town than in the opinion of some of our readers they may appear entitled to, it may not be out of place to furnish an example ; and, probably, the most striking illustration that can be afforded, occurs in the case of the property immediately surrounding the Montpellier Spa.

Upon that portion of the Delabere estate, purchased by the late Henry Thompson, comprising the present Lansdown, Montpellier, Suffolk, and Sandford districts of Cheltenham, there were in the year 1801, when the purchase in question was made, but two houses—Gallipot Farm, since converted into Suffolk House, and Westhall. Upon this self-same portion of property there are now between eight and nine hundred, a large proportion of which are quite of the first class, which, according to the average number of $5\frac{1}{2}$ persons to each house, would alone give a population of between four and five thousand. There are, moreover, at the present time, sixty houses in course of erection on this same land, or which have been so recently finished as not yet to have been inhabited. Still southward, and entering the borders of Leckhampton parish, the conversion of fields and meadows into houses and other buildings, has been, of late years, going on to a very considerable extent; and Park Place, Tivoli, and the Park, with the more densely populated districts on either side of the Tram-road, and right and left of the Bath-road, have all started into existence within a period surprisingly short, and where, a few years back, scarcely a single respectable residence was to be found.

Precisely the same results have obtained in the case of the property around what was once the Sherborne Spa, on the scite of which one of the noblest Hotels in Europe is now being erected. Thirty years ago, from High Street to this spot, it was all a barren swamp! Effects, similar in every respect, promise, ere long, to reward the enterprising spirit of Mr. Pitt, whose property on the north side of the town, will, in all probability, twenty years hence, be as densely populated as are the Montpellier and Imperial now.

These have been a few of the causes which, within the last six-and-thirty years, have contributed to the increase of Cheltenham in a ratio almost unprecedented. Prior to the commencement of the present century, we have no accurate data wherefrom to estimate its rise and progress, though conjecture and inference supply much that is interesting, as to its state and condition during the period of its infancy, as a watering place. Some curious examples may however be quoted, illustrative of the appearance which it presented in the year 1800, in contrast with what it is at present. The season, as it called, was then considered to last four months, commencing with the first of June, and terminating with the thirtieth of September; and during this period, the lodgings throughout the town were charged double what they were in the spring and autumn. The mail from London arrived at eleven in the morning, and left on its return, at a quarter-past four. Now, the same mail arrives at seven o'clock, and does not leave until eight in the evening. In the year here referred to, the celebrated Dr. Jenner appears to have been the only resident physician practising in the town. There were five surgeons, one chemist and druggist, and five attorneys. The contrast of 1837 gives us seventeen physicians, twenty-seven surgeons, twenty chemists and druggists, and thirty attorneys!

In the following year, 1801, the national census determined exactly the state of Cheltenham at that time: and from this we find that the number of its population was then 3076; its inhabited houses, 710.* Of these seven hundred and ten houses however, it is more than probable that by far the greater number were of a very poor description, consisting of the cottages of labourers, and persons employed in agriculture : since we find that five years subsequent to this return, namely, in the August of 1806, there were in Cheltenham only 494 houses of sufficient importance to be assessed to the poor rate ; and in the tithings of Naunton Westhall and Sandford, Alstone and Arle, but nineteen ; and the entire amount of a rate of ninepence on houses, and one shilling on land, only produced £299. 2s. 8d. As a contrast to this, it may be mentioned that a poor-rate granted for the township and hamlets in December, 1837, of four pence on houses and land, amounted to no less a sum than £3011. 13s. 4d., the total number of houses assessed being about four thousand.

* There were also fifteen houses building. From the parish registers, we find the number of baptisms in 1831 were eighty-seven; the marriages, twenty-four; and the burials, forty-seven.

A few examples from the assessments for these two rates may not be uninteresting, and will, moreover, serve to illustrate the immense increase which within the intervening period had taken place in the value of property in Cheltenham.

The Plough Hotel was in the rate of 1806 assessed at £65. In the rate of 1837 it is assessed at £1500.

Suffolk House, then occupied by Lord Suffolk, was rated at £30. It is now rated at £300.

St. Margaret's, the residence of Colonel Carrington Smith, was in 1806 assessed at £15. In 1837 at £300.

The County of Gloucester Bank in 1806 was assessed at £130. In 1837 it is rated at £150.

Mr. Gardner's Brewery, from an assessment in 1806 of £18., has increased in 1837 to an assessment of £500.

The property purchased by the late Henry Thompson of the Rev. J. De la Bere, situate in the tythings of Alstone and Westhall, Naunton and Sandford, and to which we have already directed attention, was in 1806 assessed at £100., and paid to the poor rate £5. The same rate charged upon this property now amounts to the large sum of £734. 5s. 4d., the number of houses rated being nearly double the number which in 1806 was rated through the whole of Cheltenham, together with its embodied tythings. The total of the contribution of this property to all the local rates (including the poor-rate charge) in this year was about £40. It now pays to the same class of rates upwards of £4000.

In the year we have selected for comparison with the last, there were 222 rate payers on the north side of the High Street, whose proportion to the poor rate of 1806 amounted to £94. 8s. 3d. On the south side there were 253 houses rated, producing £105. 10s. 10d., exclusive of the tythings of Westhall, Naunton and Sandford, Alstone and Arle, which together contained 19 rate payers, whose united payments amounted to £99. 3s. 7d. The proportions of the same divisions according to the rate last granted are, on the north side of the town 1895 rate payers, paying together the sum of £1141. 5s. 8d.

ON THE SOUTH SIDE 989 Houses charged with £993 13 8

To which add the Tything of West- hall, Naunton, & Sandford	} 735	629	3	8
Alstone, which includes Lans- down
Arle	47	51	5	0
Total	1930 Houses charged with	£1870	7	8

By this return it will be seen that the average poor rate charge on each house on the south side of the High Street is (within a fraction) 19s. 5d. ; and on the houses situate to the north of the same street not quite 12s. $\frac{1}{2}$ d. each, a difference which arises from the greater proportion of large houses which have of late years been erected on the south compared with those which have been built on the north side of the town, and from the great disproportionate increase that has taken place in the poorer districts which have sprung up in the neighbourhood of St. Paul's Church, and the lower end of the High Street, opposite the Gas Works.

We might multiply facts of an equally interesting character with those already given, in illustration of the progressive growth of the town, and of the statistical relations of each successive year ; but as in a work like the Annuaire it would not, we consider, be well to enter too much into the details of any subject at first, we shall, for the present, refrain from extending these notes, deferring to some future occasion, the more detailed examination into the Past and Present State of Cheltenham. Meanwhile, however, we lay before our readers the following Tables, which of themselves will furnish a tolerably accurate view of the state of the Town at the several periods indicated, and will enable any person interested in statistical enquiries to satisfy himself on many points relating to the population and general economy of Cheltenham.

No. I.

Table of the Population and Inhabited Houses of Cheltenham at the periods stated, according to the Census for each year.

	POPULATION.	HOUSES.
1801	3,076	716
1811	8,325	1,568
1821	16,388	2,411
1831	22,242	4,130
1837	37,026	6,732

This last calculation is given upon the authority of a very careful, and, we believe, accurate survey of the town, taken in the spring of 1837, by Mr. H. G. Trinder, the Collector of the Commissioners' and other rates, and consequently the person likely to be the best qualified for the undertaking. The details of this survey are given in the tables immediately following.

PAST AND PRESENT STATE OF THE STEAM ENGINE,

BY CHARLES F. PARTINGTON,

Professor of Mechanical Philosophy, Author of the History of the Steam Engine, Editor of the British Cyclopædia, &c. &c.

“ Soon shall thy arm, unconquered Steam, afar
Drag the slow waggon and impel the car,
Or on wide waving wings, expanded, bear
The flying chariot through the fields of air.”

THE singular prophecy exhibited in the above lines has been in a great measure verified since the death of its author, as the steam engine is now employed to communicate a degree of velocity which passeth that of the eagle in its flight. When the speed of a common carriage is too slow for the wants of man, he has recourse to the steam engine—that abridger of time and space—and most powerfully does it answer to the appeal, for there is scarcely any boundary to the rapidity of its motion. As Cheltenham is likely to share in the advantages derivable from this extraordinary primal mover, a few pages of the Annuaire cannot be better employed than in a brief sketch of its progress, commencing with the earliest form, and tracing it to its present improved state.

What the steam engine was two thousand years ago may readily be gathered from the above engraving; in short it can only be characterised as a pleasing philosophical toy, put in operation by steam or compressed air. The figures were made to revolve on the principle of the common rocket wheel, the fire being applied above as shown in the sketch.

Captain Savary raised water from the mines by filling a copper vessel with steam, and then condensing the steam by a stream of cold water the fluid was forced up from the mine by the pressure of the atmosphere. The next important step in the history of this extraordinary primal mover consisted in the employment of a piston and cylinder to work pumps. For this improvement we are indebted to Messrs. Newcomen and Cawley, two humble artizans of Dartmouth in Devonshire, and it is an important fact in the history of the steam engine, that the greater part of the really valuable improvements that have been made in its construction owe their discovery to practical men—philosophers of nature's own creating, and to whom the figured volume of an Euclid, or the elaborate disquisitions of a Newton appear to have been but as sealed books. The atmospheric steam engine, as Newcomen's machine is called, is still employed in many places where fuel is cheap. The steam is admitted beneath an air-tight piston, working in a cylinder, and a small quantity of water being afterwards introduced, the steam is condensed and a vacuum formed, so that the pressure of the atmosphere drives it to the bottom. It may be proper to add that the piston, even in the earliest engines, as well as in those of modern erection, was made air-tight by a soft belt of hemp, and not by a "packing of leather," as is stated in some of the general treatises on natural philosophy. To render the arrangements of the atmospheric engine perfectly intelligible, it will be better to trace its operation in the engraving on the following page.

The great working beam oscillates on the axis g, supporting at the extremity of the rod the piston attached to a chain which encircles the end of the beam, so that the piston-rod is constantly kept in the same perpendicular direction. To the opposite end of the great beam is suspended the pump rod, furnished with a counterpoise to ensure the elevation of the piston after it has been depressed by the atmosphere. The piston being thus alternately elevated and depressed, a quantity of water will be pumped up at every stroke of the engine proportioned to the force with which the atmosphere presses upon the piston. There is a small pipe at u, which descends into the water in the boiler for the purpose of ascertaining the quantity it contains, for if the valve is turned while the lower extremity of the pipe is immersed in the water, the elasticity of the steam will force the fluid through the aperture; but if the surface of the water in the boiler is below the end of the pipe, only steam will issue when the valve is opened. There is a small pump at w, communicating with the well, to supply condensing water to the reservoir by the pipe xx. A pipe pp descends from the top of the cylinder to carry off the water which collects above the piston. In the earliest form of the atmospheric engine two common hand valves were employed, which it was necessary to open and shut at every working stroke: the one for the purpose of admitting steam from the boiler into the cylinder, and the other to introduce the condensing water from the cistern. This circumstance occasioned much inconvenience, which is stated with some degree of truth to have been obviated by the contrivance of an idle boy, who was employed to open and shut these communications alternately. He observed that by connecting the two stop valves by means of a string they opened and shut each other, and by adopting this principle with a plug-frame r, the engine regulated its own supply of condensing water and steam.

We must now briefly examine the labours of Mr. Watt, which form a very important era in the history of the steam engine. This extraordinary man was originally a mathematical instrument maker at Glasgow, and having been employed to repair a model constructed on the atmospheric principle, found that a given quantity of steam generated in the boiler did not produce a corresponding effect in the cylinder; in fact he found by direct experiment that more than half was lost by its being condensed in the cylinder previously cooled down to form a vacuum. He then resorted to a variety of expedients to economize the steam, and ultimately introduced the important improvement of condensing the steam in a separate vessel. This form of the engine is represented in the following engraving.

Mr. Watt made the steam engine a double acting apparatus, so that the elastic vapour was employed both to depress and elevate the piston. In this highly scientific arrangement a communication is shewn between the condensing pipe and top of the cylinder, and the steam pipe and cylinder at A B. A similar double communication is opened with the bottom at C D, and the whole is made self-acting by the rods E F. If we suppose the piston at the top of the cylinder, and a communication opened with the boiler by the valve at A, the steam will rush in and depress the piston, while the elastic vapour previously imprisoned beneath the piston will escape into the condenser by the open valve at D, and thus form a vacuum in aid of the steam pressing above. By changing the action of the valves the piston is afterwards propelled up in a similar manner.

In our sketch of the engine we must not pass by the governor, which, as its name implies, is intended to govern or regulate the whole power of the machine. It is hardly possible to conceive anything more simple or efficacious than this beautiful piece of apparatus. The inventor took his first principle from the centrifugal force of the solar system, and employed two metal balls as mimic planets, which being made to revolve round an upright staff, acted on the steam pipe. The precise arrangement of the parts of the governor as it is now employed may readily be understood. The balls a a are suspended by compound levers furnished with joints at b c d, and the whole apparatus is made to revolve with the engine by a band passing round the pulley e. When the engine revolves too fast the balls fly off from the upright axis, and the whole series of joints are depressed, carrying with them the lever to which they are connected at top. The descent of the lever at f causes a proportionate rise at g, and the valve is partially closed in the box h, so that less steam being admitted, the speed of the engine is diminished, or rather brought to its proper rate of motion.

The appropriation of steam to the propelling of vessels will next engage our attention. Jonathan Hulls invented a steam boat more than a century back, but it could never have been employed with any practical advantage. From the earliest times the mariner has been

It is impossible, even from what has already been accomplished by the Steam Engine, to conjecture what it may not be yet capable of atchieving. New discoveries are continually been made in connection with it, and fresh applications of its powers are daily arresting our attention. We have just alluded to the engineering wonders of the Liverpool and Manchester, and the London and Birmingham Railways as instances of what this mighty instrument is in our day accomplishing; and we may here also mention that an Engine has been lately constructed for the Great Western Line by Messrs. Stevenson and Co. of Newcastle, which is calculated to draw a load equal to fifty tons at the rate of fifty miles an hour, and the wheels of which have been made to revolve with a velocity of sixty-two and a half miles in the same space of time. There is, in short, no limit to the power of the Steam Engine, other than that which arises from the weakness of the materials composing its various parts; and we have already seen enough of its surprising capabilities to justify the augury that it is destined, ere long, to revolutionize the world anew in all its commercial, social, and political relations.

CHRONOLOGICAL NOTICES OF CHELTENHAM

AND

EVENTS CONNECTED WITH ITS HISTORY,

FROM THE EARLIEST RECORDED PERIOD TO THE CLOSE OF 1837.

1811—St. Mary's Church built.

The date here given is that commonly received as the year of the erection of this church, though it cannot be proved with any degree of certainty. A Priory was known to have existed in Cheltenham, which was supposed to have been founded about the year 803.

1081.—Cheltenham first noticed in Domesday Book.

This is the earliest recorded mention of the town, where it appears under the name of Chintenhām, and is described as consisting of eight hydes and a half of land held by King Edward. On pulling down the old Market House, in 1817, a stone was discovered bearing an inscription of the date of 1107.

1574—Alms Houses founded by Richard Pate, Esq.

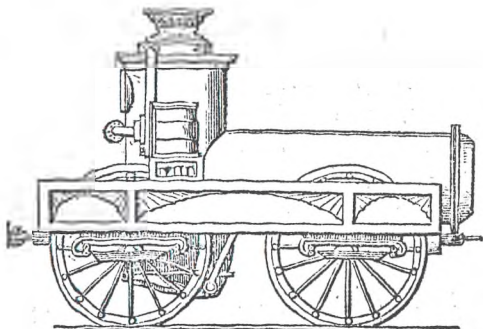

Free Grammar School ditto.

Pate's Alms Houses are situated in Albion Street, for the reception of six poor people, two of whom, by the conditions of the grant, must be women. The Free Grammar School is in High Street, adjoining Yearsley's Hotel. The nomination of the Head Master is vested in Corpus Christi College. That office is at present filled by the Rev. W. H. Hawkins, B.D.

baffled by the uncertain elements of the winds and waves. Hence it was that when a voyage of a few miles might be protracted to several days, those great rivers and inlets of the sea which penetrate far into our island, were in many cases rather drawbacks on our internal communication than beneficial to commerce. But the uncertain and limited influence of the wind and tide is now superseded by a new agent, which is perfectly manageable, and acts with equal efficacy in any required direction. The practical effects of this great discovery have been truly astonishing. Coasting voyages, which were formerly tedious and uncertain, can now be performed with all the expedition of land journeys. The most rapid rivers, on which only a solitary boat was here and there placed for the convenience of crossing, have become the active scenes of domestic intercourse and trade; they are now seen covered with large vessels crowded with passengers, and actuated by the powerful aid of steam they resist the current, and force their way through the opposing waters. Indeed steam boats may be seen stemming the ocean in every quarter of the Globe, from the Ganges to the Arctic regions. On the Scottish shores especially the advantages of steam navigation have been singularly exemplified, as the locks and deep inlets by which it is intersected teem with them, and by facilitating the communications in every direction, furnish a ready market for the produce of the country.

But of all the moving automata which owe their operation to the force of elastic vapour, the steam carriage is the most extraordinary. For this purpose high pressure steam is employed, and we can hardly conceive a locomotive carriage more simple or fitter for the purpose than the one represented in the accompanying sketch.

The frame work is formed of iron, and the pistons work in their cylinders placed beneath, each piston being attached to a crank forming part of the axis of the wheels. Carriages of this kind are constantly seen on the Manchester rail, drawing along a train of twenty or thirty carriages with a speed that frequently passes that of the wind. But even that extraordinary work sinks into absolute insignificance before the great line between the Metropolis and Birmingham, which is but the commencement of a vast artery intended to stretch across our island. The enduring works of the Romans, even in their brightest days, when the wealth of the world was at their command, were but types and shadows of this amazing undertaking. The engineer to the ordinary observer appears to wield the wand of the enchanter, such is the facility with which he prepares the way for this amazing undertaking, nor can we contemplate without a feeling of national exultation this wonder of modern art.

1628—Manor of Cheltenham sold to John Dutton, Esq., of Sherborne, for £1200.

The first Manorial Court was held, in virtue of this sale, the 3rd of June, 1629.

1660—Quakers' Meeting House built.

1667—Poor's Ground purchased.

The Poor's Ground here spoken of consists of several plots of ground, situated near the Shackles Turnpike. They were originally purchased with monies, bequeathed by various persons, for the general purposes of charity. The proceeds, amounting to about £60. per annum, continue to be annually distributed by the Churchwardens on St. Thomas's Day to poor people upwards of sixty years of age,—the preference being given to those born in the parish.

1660—Rev. Maurice Roberts, first incumbent of Cheltenham after the Restoration.

Of the Curates of Cheltenham previous to the restoration no sufficiently authentic account is in existence. The nomination at this time was vested in Jesus College.

1666—Population, 1500 ; Inhabited Houses, 321.

1701—Baptist Chapel built.

1703—Terrible storm, November 27th.

That this was a storm of unusual violence may be inferred from the fact of its being especially noticed in the Parish Register, where the following account is given :—"A terrible tempetuous wind on the 27th day of November, about ye hours from one to seven in the morning, which did very great damage, Both at Sea and alsoe in Land, to the ruind of very many ffamilies."

1716—Mineral Spring discovered.

For the particulars of this discovery, and for all subsequent discoveries and improvements connected with the Spas, vide The Stranger's Guide, p. 35, et seq.

1718—The Well railed in and covered.

1721—Waters first analysed by Drs. Greville and Baird.

1731—June 5, Storm of lightning and hail.

This storm is said to have destroyed property to the amount of £2000., and as the number of inhabited houses could not have exceeded 400, nor the population 2000, it may be inferred that it was one of extraordinary severity.

1738—Dome built over the Well.

This dome until very recently occupied the centre of the Old Well Walk, between the present Pump Room and the private house. It was only in the Spring of the last year that it was removed. It was also in 1738 that the Well was first called The Cheltenham Spa.

1739—The avenue of elm trees planted.

1749—Dr. Jenner born at Berkeley, May 17th.

1774—Long Room at the Old Well erected.

Down to this date the house, now a private Dwelling, had been used as the pump room.

1780—Simeon Moreau, Esq., elected first M.C.

In consequence of the influx of Visitors, which, in this year, was estimated at 360, it was deemed expedient to appoint a Master of the Ceremonies, and the above gentleman was accordingly elected to the office.

1781—Falconberg House built.

This house is celebrated from having been the residence of King George the Third. It is now called Bay's Hill Lodge.

1784—James Dutton, Esq., created Lord Sherborne.

1786—Paving Commissioners' Act passed.

This Act (the first passed for the purpose of cleansing and improving the town) was repealed, together with a second Act for amending the same passed, twenty years afterwards, by the present Town Commissioners' Act in the year 1821.

1787—Freeman's Baths established.

These baths are entitled to notice from having been the first public baths opened in Cheltenham.

1787—Sunday Schools established.

1788—July 12, George the Third arrived.

July 21, Prince of Wales arrived.

1788—August 1, Duke of York arrived.

August 16, Royal Family left.

To this visit of the Royal Family Cheltenham is indebted for much of its reputation as the resort of fashion,—the fame which it acquired by thus becoming the temporary sojourn of Royalty having materially contributed to its present prosperity.

1795—First Troop of Gloucestershire Yeomanry Cavalry,— Snell, Esq., Commandant.

Three years after the formation of this troop (viz. in 1798,) a Corps of Volunteer Infantry was raised, of which Sir W. Hicks, Bart., was appointed Captain.

1797—Population 2700 ; Inhabited Houses 530.

1799—Rev. Henry Foulkes appointed Incumbent.

Mr. Foulkes was the last Curate appointed by Jesus College subject to the original restrictions, which required, among other conditions, that the holder of the Curacy should be a Bachelor and an M.A. of three years standing.

1801—Population 3076 ; Inhabited Houses 710.

1801—The Delabere property purchased by Henry Thompson, Esq., and called the Montpellier.

The property purchased by Mr. H. Thompson consisted of between three and four hundred acres, extending from beyond Lansdown into the Bath Road and Sandford Fields. A short time prior to Mr. Thompson's purchase the Earl of Suffolk had bought about thirty acres adjoining, with a farm house, (now Suffolk House) for which he gave the sum of £2,800. His daughter, Lady Catharine Howard, subsequently disposed of the property for £14,000. Suffolk Lawn and Suffolk Square stand upon a portion of Lord Suffolk's land.

1801—Simeon Moreau, Esq., M.C., died.

1801—James King, Esq. elected M.C.

1802—Volunteer Infantry disembodied.

1803—Original Chalybeate Spa discovered by Mr. Cruickshanks.

This Spa, which was the first pure chalybeate discovered in Cheltenham, has long since been disused. It was situate in a meadow behind the present Belle Vue Place. Mr. Cruickshanks was Chemist to the Board of Ordinance. Vide Griffith's Hist. Chelt. p. 28, 4to. edit.

1805—Theatre built by J. Watson.

Mr. Watson was an itinerant coadjutor of John Kemble and his sister Mrs. Siddons, who in the early part of their career, occasionally acted at Cheltenham in a temporary theatre, which has since been converted into the York Hotel.

1806—Female Orphan Asylum established by Queen Charlotte.

1807—Cambray Chalybeate Spa discovered.

1808—Spring at the Old Well enlarged to 12ft. deep and 6ft. wide.

1809—Montpellier Pump Room opened.

Previous to the erection of a Pump Room on the site of the present Rotunda, Mr. Thompson had endeavoured to appropriate Vittoria House (which was built by him and then called Hygæa House) to that purpose, and accordingly had the various spa waters conveyed there through pipes; but, finding the visitors preferred drinking them nearer to their source, he was induced to erect a room immediately over the wells, where, ever since, the waters have been drank.

1809—Alstone Spa established.

This Spa was situate near the present Alstone Mill. Its waters were analyzed by Accum in 1810, but, either from its inconvenient locality, or some other cause, it never attained to much celebrity. A singular circumstance connected with its history is, that, as a last effort to obtain support, the waters were carried through the town in the morning, in a water-cart, provided for that purpose. This was about the year 1820, since which the Alstone Spa has gradually sunk into oblivion.

1809—Cheltenham Chronicle published, price 6d.

This was the first Newspaper published in Cheltenham, at a time when the population was about 7000.

1809—August 2nd, Cheltenham Chapel opened by the Rev. Rowland Hill and the Rev. W. Jay.

1809—Nov. 21, First stone of the Tram Road from Cheltenham to Gloucester laid by the Earl of Suffolk.

The ostensible object for forming this Road was the conveying of coal from the forest of Dean, and hard stone from Bristol for the repair of the roads, the soft stone of Leckhampton having heretofore been the only material procurable for that purpose.

1810—Roman Catholic Chapel opened.

1810—June 4, New Assembly Rooms opened with a Ball.

1810—July 2, Leckhampton and Cheltenham Tram Road opened.

This Tram Road was opened with a public procession, and celebrated by a dinner at which the Hon. John Dutton, the present Lord Sherborne, presided.

1810—Organ in St. Mary's Church built.

The expense of this Organ was defrayed by public subscription: it was opened in May, 1811.

1811—Population according to census 8325; Inhabited Houses 1556.

1811—June 28th, Decision of the House of Lords on the Berkeley peerage question.

By this decision, which refused to recognize the marriage said to have taken place between the late Earl of Berkeley and the present Dowager Countess, in the year 1785, Thomas Morton Fitzharding Berkeley became the acknowledged Earl of Berkeley.

1812—Sept. 22, Foundation stone of Ebenezer (Wesleyan Methodist) Chapel laid.

1813—May 3, Cheltenham Dispensary established.

A Parish Meeting was held in the Vestry on the 3rd of March in this year, to establish a Dispensary, the Rev. A. Foulkes in the chair. Drs. Jameson, Parry, Boisragon, and Christie offered themselves as Physicians. On the 9th another meeting was held at the Assembly Rooms, Lord Ashtown in the chair, at which meeting a code of regulations and rules was submitted by Dr. Parry, and adopted. Drs. Jameson and Parry were chosen, by lot, as Physicians, and Messrs. Senger and Newell Surgeons for the ensuing year. A Casualty Ward was subsequently added, and in 1836 the Cheltenham Dispensary was converted into a General Hospital.

1813—September 15, Ebenezer Chapel opened.

1813—Sept. 7th, Mr. Sadler, Jun., ascended in his Balloon. The Balloon had been previously exhibited in the Assembly Rooms for several weeks, and was to have ascended on the 6th, but was prevented doing so by the rain. The gas employed for inflating this Balloon was obtained from sulphuric acid and iron filings, but although 35cwt. of the former, and a ton and a half of the latter were consumed, the gas produced was found insufficient to bear Mr. Sadler's weight; when his son, a youth of 16, took his place, and effected the ascent. The Balloon descended safely the same evening at Chipping Norton.

1813—August 2nd, Louis XVIIIth visited Cheltenham.

1813—August 14th, New Bath Road through Cambray opened.

1813—August 9, Sarah Humphries buried in the Cross Road for felo-de-se.

This was the last instance of a Cross-road Burial in the neighbourhood of Cheltenham.

1816—September 1st, Rev. Charles Jervis appointed Incumbent.

The Rev. Charles Jervis succeeded the Rev. H. Foulkes, and was the First Curate appointed, subject to the new regulations introduced on the presentation to the curacy being transferred from Jesus College to Joseph Pitt, Esq., who gave in exchange for it the advowson of Bagenden Church. Mr. Pitt subsequently sold it to the Trustees, in whom the presentation is now vested. The late Rev. C. Simeon, of Trinity College, Cambridge, was one of the original Trustees.

1816—June 5, National School established.

A public meeting held on this day at the Assembly Rooms resolved upon the establishment of a school of this description, and, the resolution being promptly supported by patronage and subscription, was immediately commenced, though the first school room was not opened until the 6th of January in the following year.

1816—July 7th, Duke of Wellington's first visit.

1816—July 29, Assembly Rooms opened by the Duke of Wellington.

1816—August 9, Mrs. Forty died, aged 72.

Mrs. Hannah Forty was for nearly half a century Pumper at the Old Well which was then better known as Mrs. Forty's Well. Her name is therefore intimately associated with the History of that Spa.

1816—August 9, Countess of Huntingdon's Chapel opened.

1816—October 16, J. King, Esq., M.C., died, aged 70.

1816—Alexander Fotheringham, Esq. elected M.C.

1817—January 6, National School opened.

Dr. Bell's system of national education was first publicly recognized and established in Cheltenham on the 5th of June, 1816. On the 9th of August the foundation stone of the Bath Road School Room was laid, and on the 6th of January the school took possession; the number of scholars at the time consisting of 184 boys and 148 girls.

1817—Long Room added to the Montpellier.

Previous to the erection of the Long Room here referred to, the Pump Room of the Montpellier consisted merely of a large square building, with a wooden veranda in front.

1817—June 11, Sherborne Promenade began.

1818—February, Roman Baths discovered at Witcomb.

1818—September 28, Town first lighted with gas.

1818—October, Savings' Bank established.

1818—August 12, Sherborne Spa opened.

The establishment of the Sherborne Spa tended greatly to the improvement of Cheltenham, by converting a large tract of marshy ground into beautiful rides and drives. The Promenade forming the present approach to the Montpellier property was laid out and planted, and a bridge erected over the Chelt in June 1817. The first stone of the Pump Room was laid January 19, 1818. It changed its name some years ago from the Sherborne to the Imperial. But this Room itself has now ceased to exist, at least in connection with a Spa, having been taken down to make way for the present magnificent Hotel now building on its scite. The Room has however been re-erected at the end of the Imperial Promenade, immediately over the Chelt, and adds greatly to the architectural appearance of that part of the town.

1818—April 25, Chelt overflowed, great damage.

The flood here spoken of overflowed the lands on both sides of river to an alarming extent, and did very great damage. The Sandford meadows were laid under water.

1819—Cheltenham races established.

In the August of the previous year experimental races were held on Nottingham Hill; their success led to the establishment of those which have annually taken place on Cleeve Hill, and which are the races here referred to.

1819—Spring at the Old Well deepened to 70 feet.

1819—April 6, Gas Light Act obtained.

1820—January 22, A. Fotheringham, Esq., M.C., died.

1820—March 21, Charles H. Marshall, Esq., elected M.C.

Capt. Marshall succeeded Mr. Fotheringham, who died January 22nd of this year. The other candidates were Capt. Clough and Capt. Smith. For Captain M. 228 votes were recorded; for Capt. C. 200; and for Capt. S. 21.

1820—November 2, H. Thompson, Esq., died, aged 72.

To Henry Thompson, Esq., the Town of Cheltenham stands more indebted for its present "high and palmy state" than to any other person, living or dead. The discoveries which he made in connection with its mineral waters, and the extensive improvements which he projected and accomplished on the Montpellier Property, gave a reputation and celebrity to the place which, down to the period of his enterprising speculations, it had never enjoyed. His memory is still fondly cherished in the recollection of the inhabitants, as the Town's benefactor, for, to use the forcible expression of the London

Magazine of that day, "he left a name behind him of which no man could speak evil."

1821—Baptist Chapel re-built.

1821—June 29, first Van from Cheltenham to London.

Prior to 1831 there was no conveyance for heavy goods to London, except the broad-wheel waggons, which were usually four days on the road. The fly vans accomplish the journey in two days.

1821—June 23, Town Commissioners' Act passed.

This Act, which repealed two former Acts of Parliament, passed in the 26th and 46th of George the Third, for improving, cleansing, and lighting the town, granted enlarged powers for those purposes to the Commissioners appointed by and under this Act, who now have cognizance of all matters connected with the paving, lighting, and improving the town, as well as of the Police and Local legislation.

1821—Population, according to Census, 13388. Inhabited Houses 2411.

1821—Sept. 14, George the Fourth passed through Cheltenham on his return from Ireland.

1821—December 5, Thomas Bagott De la Bere, Esq., died, aged 93.

Thomas Bagott de la Bere was the only surviving representative of a very ancient family who had come over with William the Conqueror, and who for many generations had lived at Southam, considered one of the oldest residencies in Gloucestershire. The "last of his race," Thomas Bagott de la Bere was always known as "the Squire," by which appellation he was generally addressed, and his health drank at public dinners. Upon his death the estate of Southam was purchased by Lord Ellenborough who made it his place of usual residence.

1822—May 22, Bath Road through Painswick opened.

1822—July 30—Mr. Griffiths ascended with Green in his balloon.

This was the first balloon inflated in Cheltenham with the common gas.

1822—August 5, New Market opened.

Previous to the erection of the present commodious building the Market House stood near the centre of the High Street, on the scite of the Public Office. The new Market House and Arcade were built at the expense of Lord Sherborne, the Lord of the Manor, who receives the income arising from the tolls and rent-charges.

1822—July 10, visit of the Prince and Princess of Denmark.

1823—January 26, Dr. Jenner died, aged 74.

This eminent benefactor of the human race was long and intimately connected with Cheltenham, having practised here as a physician for many years. He was buried in the Parish Church of Berkeley on Monday, February the 3rd, 1823. On the 19th of August a masonic procession took place at Gloucester to assist at the erection of the monument to his memory.

1823—April 11, Trinity Church consecrated by Dr. Bethell, Bishop of Gloucester.

This church is mostly the property of Lord Sherborne, who on the failure of the subscriptions entered into for its erection, completed the edifice at his own cost.

1823—May 20, Parish boundaries perambulated.

Remarkable from the circumstance of there having been no previous perambulation for nearly a century. It occupied two days, and the ground gone over exceeded 26 miles.

1823—September 8, Foundation stone of the Mythe Bridge laid with Masonic honours.

The Mythe Bridge is erected over the Severn at Tewkesbury, and was considered of such importance to Cheltenham as opening the communication with Hereford, that a public procession was undertaken to lay the foundation stone.

1823—September 24, Mr. Graham ascended in his Balloon.

1823—November 5, First Lodge held in the Masonic Hall.

In the Masonic Hall, which was opened on the above occasion two Lodges are held,—the Foundation Lodge, removed from Abingdon, and the Royal Union, from Cirencester.

1824—April 26, Eight new bells erected in the Parish Church.

This set of bells, erected at the expense of the parish, being incomplete, the ringers, at their own cost, added two others to perfect the peal: there are therefore at present ten bells.

1824—June 17, Water Works Company established.

1824—August 4, Dr. Jameson died, aged 71.

Dr. Jameson was one of the first physicians of his day in Cheltenham. He interested himself greatly in the discoveries of the late Henry Thompson, Esq., and wrote a Treatise on the Chemical and Medical Properties of the Cheltenham Waters, still referred to as the text book of their history.

1824—November 8, Cheltenham Journal first published.

1828—February 21, Public Clock set up.

1829—January 22, St. John's Church consecrated.

St. John's Church was built at the joint expense of the Rev.

Spencer Phillips and the Rev. Mr. Moxon ; the latter gentleman, however, died before the consecration took place.

1829—October 11, Dr. Christie, M.D., died suddenly.

Dr. C. was long a resident physician, and took an active part in the establishment of the Dispensary.

1830—June 10, Cobbett's visit.

This visit of the above celebrated political writer was very short ; for having unfortunately in one of the early numbers of his famous Register, written a violent and coarse attack upon Cheltenham, the announcement which he made of an intention to deliver a political lecture in the Market Place, so roused the indignation of the inhabitants, that Mr. Cobbett found it advisable to decamp privately and in haste, and the day following his arrival he took his departure for Stow-in-the-Wold. The populace, disappointed of the opportunity of retaliating, burnt him in effigy through the streets.

1830—July 20, Pittville Pump Room opened, with a public breakfast.

1830—August 14, Visit of the Duchess of Kent and Princess Victoria.

1830—October 5, St. James's Church consecrated by Dr. Monk, Bishop of Gloucester.

St. James's Church was built in shares, mostly of one hundred pounds each ; when completed the shareholders drew lots for the priority of selection, four hundred sittings having been first set apart for the endowment of the church. It is capable of accommodating about fourteen hundred persons.

1831—September 10, Col. Berkeley created Lord Segrave.

1831—February 15, Gurney's Steam Coach exhibited in the streets.

This was the first and only attempt made in Cheltenham to run steam carriages on the public roads. Sir Charles Dance, who conducted this experiment, after exhibiting the carriage around the Montpellier and other public drives, for a few days, started it as a regular stage coach, to and from Gloucester. For some weeks it succeeded remarkably well, but on the roads being repaired, and fresh stone laid down, it was obliged to be abandoned.

1831—September 26, Great Reform Dinner at the Assembly Rooms.

1831—November 4, New Police established.

Previously to the establishment of the New Police the old system of Watch prevailed. The New Police are subject to the jurisdiction of the Town Commissioners.

1832—Feb. 3, Dr. Bell died at Lindsey Cottage, aged 80.

Dr. Bell had been a resident of Cheltenham for several years before his death. Lindsey Cottage, the house in which he lived, is now occupied by Sir Richard Wolseley, and is called Wolseley Cottage.

1832—February 10, Dr. Bell buried at Westminster Abbey.

1832—March 21, Fast Day on account of the Cholera.

1832—Board of Health established.

The escape of Cheltenham from the Cholera was probably to be attributed, in a great measure, to the establishment of the Board of Health. The exertions made by its members, to prevent and guard against the introduction of the infection and disease, are entitled to every possible praise. All the low and unhealthy places in the town were, under their superintendence and direction, thoroughly cleansed and purified; and the utmost care taken to prevent the spread of those fevers too commonly prevalent in a state of incipency among the dwellings of the wretched and the poor. As an instance of the vigilance of this Board it may be mentioned, that in the autumn of 1832 nearly 2000 vagrants were prevented entering the town, being conveyed by its officers around the outskirts, relieved, and passed on their journey.

1832—Aug. 10, Reform Illumination.

1832—Nov. 14, Thanksgiving day for escape from Cholera.

1834—Nov. 30, Duke of Gloucester died.

1835—Jan. 8, Election. The Hon. C. F. Berkeley elected a second time M.P. for Cheltenham.

The Hon. Craven Berkeley was opposed on this occasion by W. P. Gaskell, Esq., but returned by a majority of 387 votes, only 25 having been polled for Mr. Gaskell.

1835—Jan. 10, C. W. Codrington, Esq. and the Hon. A. Moreton elected Members of Parliament for the Eastern Division of Gloucestershire.

1835—April 6, The Cheltenham Athenæum opened.

The Athenæum was a literary and philosophical society, the rooms of which were in Portland Street. It originally sprang from a schism which arose among the members of the Mechanic's Institution respecting the admission into that Society of political and religious questions, of which the founders of the Athenæum disapproved. It embraced the same objects as most similar societies, but for want of adequate support the society has now ceased to exist.

1835—April 26, Capt. Grey died, aged 63.

Capt. Grey was for twenty years a resident of Cheltenham, during the whole of which period he took a most active part in almost every measure connected with the town, whether parochial or political. He commanded the first troop of Gloucestershire Yeomanry raised during the French War, and had a handsome piece of plate presented to him by the officers, August the 15th, 1809. His remains were honoured with a public funeral, and interred in St. Mary's Churchyard on the 2nd of May, 1835. Lord Segrave and John Browne, Esq., of Salperton, were among the pall-bearers.

1835—June 4, Mr. Marshall resigned the office of M.C.

1835—June 8, Capt. Kirwan elected M.C.

Captain Kirwan succeeded Mr. Marshall in the office. On Mr. Marshall's resignation several gentlemen announced themselves as candidates for the situation; but only one, Mr. Sisson, came forward on the day of election. Captain Kirwan was returned by a majority of 235 votes.

- 1835—July 14, Races removed back to Cleeve Hill.
 1835—July 16, Duke of Cambridge's Visit.
 1835—Sept. 8, Triennial Visitation of Dr. Monk, Bishop of Gloucester.

No Visitation had taken place previously to this for thirty-four years, the Bishop of Gloucester having transferred that honor to Tewkesbury. On Dr. Monk's restoring it to Cheltenham on this occasion, a deputation of the inhabitants waited upon his Lordship to thank him for this mark of ecclesiastical favor, and afterwards, at his invitation, dined with him at Yearsley's Hotel.

- 1835—Nov. 10, First Meeting of the Board of Guardians.

 1837—May 24, Zoological, Botanical, and Horticultural Gardens commenced.

These Gardens, the capital for establishing which has been raised in shares of £5. each, are situate in the centre of the Park Estate. The works were formally commenced on this day, under the auspices of H. N. Trye, Esq., the High Sheriff, assisted by the Committee of Management, who marked out the principal points of the ground, and planted a British oak to commemorate the occasion. The Gardens are now being laid out according to a design presented to the Society by T. Billings, Esq., and a considerable portion of them is expected to be sufficiently advanced by the 24th of May of the present year to admit of their being opened to the public.

1837—July 3, Ascent of the Royal Vauxhall Nassau Balloon from the Montpellier Gardens.

This famous aeronautical machine made its first ascent out of the Metropolis. On this occasion the inflation of the balloon occupied from midnight of the 2nd till five o'clock in the afternoon of the 3rd, at which hour Mr. Green, accompanied by Mr. Hughes, (one of the proprietors of Vauxhall) Mr. Spinney, (the Manager of the Cheltenham Gas Works) Mr. R. Jearrad, Mr. S. Moss, Chemist, and another individual entered the car and ascended in beautiful style, in the presence of the assembled thousands who were in and around the Gardens. The party, after a voyage of 1 hour and 25 minutes, alighted at Ashton Keyms, near Cirencester. A full and minute account of the ascent and voyage appeared at the time in No. 84 of the Cheltenham Looker-On.

1837—July 23, Hon. C. F. Berkeley elected third time member of Parliament for Cheltenham.

He was opposed by Jonathan Peel, Esq., on the Conservative interest, but returned by a majority of 334 votes.

ADVERTISEMENTS.

Works Published by H. DAVIES, Montpellier Library, Cheltenham :—

THE CHELTENHAM ANNUAIRE, FOR 1837,
AND
Directory of the Resident Gentry,

Containing also an ALPHABETICAL LIST OF THE DETACHED HOUSES AND RESIDENCES throughout the Town, and an ALMANAC FOR THE YEAR, arranged upon a plan peculiarly adapted for Cheltenham, with all the usual information to be found in similar publications: including likewise several short Treatises on subjects of peculiar interest as connected with its Natural and Topographical History.

1. A Paper on Meteorology, by the Rev. W. Ritchie, L.L.D., F.R.S., &c.

2. Notes on the Climate of Cheltenham.

3. A Descriptive Notice of Toddington, by J. Britton, Esq., F.S.A., illustrated with a View of the Building, engraved on wood by Williams.

4. On the Fossil Zoology of Cheltenham.

5. A Notice of the Establishment of the Literary and Philosophical Institution, with a Wood Engraving, by Williams, of the Front of the Building.

6. On the Principles of Railway Communication, and their Application to the Locality of Cheltenham, by CAPTAIN MOORSOM.

7. Chronological Notices of Cheltenham, and events connected with its History, from the earliest period to the close of 1836.

"This is a work elevated above the class to which it would otherwise belong, by the ability and good taste manifested in its accessories. With a Directory, an Almanac, and a Chronology of events connected with the History of Cheltenham, the 'Cheltenham Annuaire' embraces a series of original essays on literary and scientific subjects, generally connected with the place and neighbourhood, and the production of writers whose names are entitled to much respect."—Gentleman's Magazine.

"The 'Cheltenham Annuaire' ranks very far above the generality of the local publications so frequently issued with a similar aim. The Editor has evidently bestowed great pains on the publication; and the 'Annuaire' of this fashionable town altogether forms a most interesting and useful little volume."—Analyst.

"Some original essays on local, but useful and scientific subjects, are particularly deserving of approbation; and the 'Annuaire' will, no doubt, be a perennial."—Literary Gazette, No. 1048.

"An excellent local affair, not useless in a more extended sphere."—Metropolitan Magazine, No. 71.

"We have never seen a more promising 'first effort.' The 'Annuaire' must not be confounded with the mere Directory; for whilst it admirably supplies the place of such a publication, it aims at intellectual objects."—Gloucestershire Chronicle.

TEA

Is almost universally acknowledged to be one of the most delightful and refreshing Beverages used, and therefore great attention should be paid by the Dealer to its selection and purity, yet no complaint is more general than that of the difficulty of obtaining it really good; this arises in a great measure from the Venders, who are generally grocers, being but little acquainted with its various flavors and qualities, and who, from the numerous heavy articles in which they are engaged, make it of secondary consideration, and also from the credit system, which being unavoidably connected with BAD DEBTS, obliges them to charge very large, and what would otherwise be considered extravagant profits.

THE COUNTY TEA WAREHOUSE

Is conducted on a system exactly similar to that of the largest London Houses, and the best proof that

PEEK & SON

Have adhered to the principles of READY MONEY AND SMALL PROFITS, is that they have obtained the patronage of a large portion of the most respectable Residents of CHELTENHAM and GLOUCESTERSHIRE, and one of the most extensive TEA TRADES OUT OF LONDON.

PEEK & SON

Respectfully invite those Families, who for want of a better Market or other causes, purchase their Teas in London, to try

THEIR SELECTIONS,

And compare them with those they have received from the Metropolis, and they are confident the result will prove, as it has done in some hundreds of instances, that

THE COUNTY TEA WAREHOUSE

Is not and cannot be surpassed in CHEAPNESS or QUALITY by any House either in or out of London.

COFFEES and SPICES of the finest descriptions at lower prices than those usually charged.

In the DISPENSING DEPARTMENT the most strict and personal attention is paid to accuracy and punctuality, and every Prescription carefully copied, and returned with the Medicine; and it is hoped that the present arrangements will be found to combine advantage with convenience, more particularly by enabling Invalids to have the immediate administration of remedial aid.

Spirits.

In this department of their trade the Advertisers possess great advantages ; they spare no expense to procure the finest Brandies ; their best Rums acquire great age in their own bond ; their geographical position and requirements in Liverpool bring them into the closest contact with the Glasgow, Dublin, and Cork markets ; they believe that they are almost the only English holders of Old Whiskey in bond ; and their connection with the most eminent distillers in London enables them to procure the best of the British Spirits made there.

CONDUCTED BY

MR. FALLON, OF QUEEN'S COLLEGE, CAMBRIDGE,

For a Select Number of Young Gentlemen, limited to 40 ;

BAYS HILL LODGE, CHELTENHAM.

The System pursued by MR. FALLON is calculated to qualify the Pupils for the Learned Professions, the Military and Naval Colleges, and the Universities. In the Classics the higher Greek and Latin Authors are read ; and the Pupils are well exercised in the collateral Readings, Composition, and Versification. In the ENGLISH DEPARTMENT a strict attention is paid to Grammar, Composition, Penmanship, Arithmetic, Geometry, Plane and Spherical Trigonometry, Mensuration, and Algebra.

The School is divided into Four Classes, which are thus arranged :—

CLASS 1.—Latin : Cicero, Tacitus, Odes and Satires of Horace, Elegantiæ Latinæ, Versification. Greek : Homer's Iliad, Analecta Græca Majora, Euripides. English : Euclid, Algebra, Trigonometry, Composition.

CLASS 4.—Latin : Eton Grammar, Valpy's Delectus, Exempla Minora. English : Arithmetic, Writing, English Grammar.

That the mind of the Pupil may be stored with general information Mr. F. delivers a Lecture daily, either on Geography, Ancient and Modern History, Experimental Philosophy, Astronomy, Practical Mathematics, when actual Surveys are taken in the Field.

ARRANGEMENT OF LECTURES.

Monday, Geography; Tuesday, Experimental Philosophy; Wednesday, English History; Thursday, Astronomy; Friday, Ancient History; Saturday, Mythology, &c.; Sunday, Paley's Evidences and Biblical History.

These Lectures are followed by Examinations, and the results entered in Reports kept by each Scholar.

An Extensive Philosophical Apparatus enables Mr. F. to elucidate, by experiment, the most interesting discoveries in Mechanics, Optics, Electricity, Galvanism, Magnetism, Hydrostatics, Pneumatics, &c. The Motions and Phenomena of the Heavenly Bodies are elucidated by Globes, Orreries, Telescopes, and confirmed by observation.

The most important part of Education is that which concerns the moral culture of the mind; and, as this cannot be more effectually promoted than by sedulous attention to Religion, particular care is taken daily to inculcate on the mind of the Pupil religious principles, and to point out the necessity of making such principles the basis of action.

and Gentlemen.

CONDUCTED BY THE REV. JAMES BALFOUR,

OF QUEEN'S COLLEGE, CAMBRIDGE,

Some time Domestic Chaplain to the late Right Hon. Lord De Tabley, and Incumbent of the Perpetual Curacy of Lower Peover, Cheshire.

The object of this Establishment is the thorough preparation of Children of the Nobility and Gentry for the Universities, Naval and Military Institutions, and for admission to the Inns of Court; and to combine, with a course of sound instruction, every reasonable convenience and advantage of the Pupils, so that in the transition from a home to school their comforts may suffer as little diminution as possible.

By a judicious arrangement of the Classes, the Head Master is enabled personally to superintend every department of Education, and to direct the particular course of study that may be requisite for the future destination of the Pupil.

Domestic Arrangement.

It is professed that this Establishment should offer and ensure every desirable comfort and accommodation. The regulations are calculated to inculcate a habit of neatness and order, which will on all occasions be enforced. The diet is plain, abundant, and of the best quality; and all means are used to secure the health of the Pupils. Boys under 12 years of age receive the assistance of the Matron in their washing and dressing every day; the Pupils above that age are required to have performed that office for themselves by the hour appointed for prayers. The strictest regard to cleanliness of dress and person is constantly paid. Both in health and sickness the Pupils are under the constant and vigilant superintendence of Mrs. Balfour assisted by the Matron, who is an experienced nurse.

THE REAL CHELTENHAM SALTS,

MADE FROM THE

Waters of the Montpellier Spas,

THE PROPERTY OF THE LATE HENRY THOMPSON, ESQ.

These Salts, which are obtained from the Cheltenham Spa Waters by a simple process of evaporation, and contain all their medicinal properties, are the ONLY Genuine Cheltenham Salts offered to the Public,—the numberless articles sold as such, by the Chemists and Druggists throughout the Country, being merely artificial imitations of them; not containing a single particle of Cheltenham Salts in their composition. The Proprietors of the Montpellier Spa, therefore, feel called upon to caution their friends against the purchase of such Factitious Compounds, under the idea of their being the natural productions of the Spa Waters, the medical effects of which they vainly attempt to imitate.

May be had either at the LABORATORY IN THE BATH ROAD, the MONTPELLIER PUMP ROOM, or the MONTPELLIER LIBRARY adjoining; at all which places the Public may depend upon having them genuine.

MR. MARTIN,

Surgeon Dentist to their Graces the Duke & Duchess of Beaufort,
No. 5, CAMBRAY PLACE, CHELTENHAM,

Begs to inform the Nobility, Gentry, Visitors, and Residents of Cheltenham and its Environs, that he may be consulted in every department of DENTAL and MECHANICAL SURGERY, between the hours of eleven and five daily. The equitable conditions Mr. M. commenced his practice with have proved alike satisfactory to himself and those who have honoured him with their confidence; he therefore continues to undertake the most difficult and hitherto unsuccessful cases, and does not expect the Patient to take the SUBSTITUTES when completed unless they feel a desire to possess them. This announcement, as may be expected, has induced many who suffered from mal-applied artificial pieces to avail themselves of the advantages offered, and has contributed much to Mr. M.'s practical experience, and enables him to avoid and obviate those minute defects which prove frequently a source of constant annoyance.

 Mr. M.'s PRESERVATIVE DENTIFRICE may be had at the Montpellier Library.

26, Grosvenor Street, Exeter Place.
