CHELTENHAM occupies an elevated position, enjoyed by few other Towns, being from 200 to 400 feet above the Vale of Gloucester, the fall of the land to the Severn is 40 feet to the mile, though there are thousands of acres of ploughed land on the hills at the back of the Town, with their great health restoring properties. There are no flooded lands to throw up damps and fogs, and the climate is therefore fairly bracing and very healthy.

It is an historical fact King Alfred was Lord of the Manor of Cheltenham—the manor was an old estate of the Crown, and was one of the estates which maintained the dignity of the Crown of Wessex, it remained a Royal Manor till 1628 when it was transferred to the Dutton family, and afterwards to J. T. Agg-Gardner, the father of the present member.

Cheltenham was an English settlement at least a century before the time of Alfred; an ancestral document is still in existence respecting a dispute between the Bishops of Worcester and Hereford as to the "pustures" of the estates belonging to the monastery at Cheltenham, which proves the monastery existed in 781, which in a book written by Alfred himself, "In Blossom Gatherings from Augustine" the great King describing the country round, and how he found timber for making handles for tools and building houses, and where men may dwell in peace and quiet, summer and winter, whilst he adds parenthetically, "is more than I have done yet." The fine old Parish Church is a few years older than Gloucester Cathedral.

Famous a century ago as a health resort, Cheltenham, as its motto "Salubritas et Eruditio" denotes, now claims to minister both to the mind and the body, and the high reputation achieved by its Colleges and other well-known educational establishments as well as by its mineral springs go far to justify that claim.

Cheltenham is supposed to have derived its name from a small river called the "Chilt" which flows by the town, and "Haam," a home, monastery or place or shelter. Tanner in his "Notitia Monastica" gives an account of a monastery, which probably stood near the bend of the river in the year 803. Judging from the numerous Roman remains which have been discovered at various periods in the town and neighbourhood, it is very probable that Cheltenham was once the site of a Roman Camp.

Its written history dates from the time of William the Conqueror, when Cheltenham was an ancient demesne and enjoyed great privileges. Although it was vested in the Crown, it was really the property of Henry de Bohun, Earl of Hereford, who however exchanged it with King John in 1199 for other lands. In the year 1219, during the reign of Henry III., the manor and hundred were granted to William Long Espee, called the Longsword, a natural son of Henry II. by that Lady of Romance, Fair Rosamund. He afterwards became Earl of Salisbury and was succeeded by his son, who for leaving the country without permission from the King, to join the Crusades, had his estates seized by the Crown.

According to Hollinshed, King Edward IV. halted and refreshed his army at Cheltenham before the desperate battle of Tewkesbury. The old chronicler states, "On this Fridaie, King Edward at length came with all his armye unto a village called Chilttenham, like a five miles distance from Tewkesbirie, King Edward therefore made no longer delaie, but took a little refreshment himselfe, and caused his people to doo the like. This done he set forward towar is his enemies."

During the Civil Wars, Cheltenham was garrisoned by a brigade of the King's Horse commanded by Lord Grandison, and Lord Chandos. On September 5th, 1643, the Earl of Essex with the Parliamentary forces, numbering 10,000 men, appeared on the hills above Wesbury and encamped near Cheltenham, whence they marched to Gloucester, upon which the seige was raised by the Royal Army.

Until the early part of the eighteenth century, Cheltenham was a little straggling village composed of a few thatched houses. A stream of water is said to have meandered through the main street, which could only be crossed here and there by the aid of stepping stones.

As late as 1780, the Town consisted only of the High Street. The post-mistress at that period was an athletic female, locally known as "Nannie the Bellwoman." The public offices she held were multifarious and included that of town crier, constable, watchman, market porter, etc., etc.

But it was not until the year 1788 that Cheltenham reached the crowning point of fame, and received the seal of fashion, by the visit of King George III. and his Court to take the waters. From the local records, we learn that, "His Majesty having being advised by Sir George Baker to drink the Cheltenham water on the spot, Earl Fauconberg's house on Bayshill was fitted up for the Royal reception. On July 12th, 1788, their Majesties accompanied by the Princess Royal and the Princess Augusta and Elizabeth, arrived amid every demonstration of joy." The King visited the well at 6 o'clock every morning, and it is said received great benefit from the water.

Cheltenham from this time became a fashionable watering-place. Houses, inns, assembly rooms, clubs, and other accessories of the inland health resort, sprang up, and its promenades were thronged with the types of wit, wisdom, fashion and folly of the Georgian era. George IV. visited Cheltenham to take the waters in 1821, and the Duke and Duchess of Kent and the Princess Victoria in 1830. In times gone by foreign celebrities such as the Grand Duke Nicholas, afterwards Czar of Russia, Louis XVIII. and Louis Philippe of France; great soldiers, including Wellington and Marshall Lefebore; famous poets such as Byron and Scott; eminent politicians like Perceval and Fox; and other celebrated personages, including Dr. Johnson, Mrs. Siddons and Handel, all thronged to drink the waters of Cheltenham.

CHELTENHAM SAUSAGES

MANUFACTURED BY
F. BECKINGSALE & SON, CHELTENHAM.

CERTIFICATE OF ANALYSIS.

I Harvey Certify that I have submitted to a careful Chemical and Microscopical Analysis specimens of the Royal Cheltenham Sausages manufactured by Messrs. F. Beckingsale and Son, Cheltenham, and I find them to be of superior composition and quality, and to have been skilfully and judiciously prepared from the best materials only. They are delicate and appetising in flavour, and the result of my investigations prove them to have been made from meat of the primest quality only, the inferior and indigestible proportions having been carefully eliminated. I can speak with confidence as to their wholesome digestive and dietetic properties.

MR. A. J. FIELD,

Surgeon-Chiropodist, Orthopædist, and Medical Electrician

(Author of "Pedic Surgery," "The Poisons of Venomous Animals," "Notes on Salamandra Maculosa," "Lupus Erythematosus," and numerous other Articles to the Scientific Press),

6, Rodney Place, Cheltenham.

HAMMER Toe, In-Growing Nails, Onychia, Corns, Bunions, Enlarged Joints, Talipes Valgus, and ALL DISEASES AND DEFORMITIES OF THE FOOT AND LEG, successfully and painlessly treated by the latest Scientific methods. Antiseptic system.

Special Attention given to the Deformities of Children.

MR. FIELD has had a thorough training in all departments of Medical Science, and spares neither trouble nor expense so that he may keep himself well abreast of all that is best and most modern in the treatment of the various diseases and deformities of the leg and foot.

All patients may be sure of the strictest privacy. His enormous practice, probably the largest in England, has been made entirely by his professional reputation, and being a competent scientific man, he has no need to resort to the tactics of the quack medicine vendor by publishing testimonials; and he never mentions one patient's name to the other.

Patients should make an appointment, as frequently there is only time to attend to those who have previously written to secure an interview.

HOURS 10 a.m. to 8.30 p.m.

The worst cases of In-Growing Nails can frequently be cured in a few days without the necessity of the patient taking to bed.

Face Deformities.

MANY people possessing an unsightly skin have often to submit to uncharitable remarks however much they may try to pass unnoticed through the world. Many make no effort to get rid of the deformity, thinking it incurable, but none should despair before consulting MR. FIELD, who has all the latest instruments and methods for the treatment of facial defects. He has had a thorough scientific training, and has achieved most successful results (in cases the London "beauty doctors" have failed to cure) for numerous grateful patients from all parts of the country.

Superfluous Hair, Moles, Warts, Birth Marks, Port Wine, Stains, Nævi, Milium, and other Hypertrophies and Skin Defects permanently removed by Electrolysis.

Antiseptic and painless operations, leaving no scar. Success is guaranteed.

Hair restored by the Oxygen Treatment, and a clear skin and a shapely neck can always be secured by MR. FIELD'S special system.

It is desirable for parents to recognise the importance of the early removal of any blemish, as frequently a simple operation would confer a marked and lasting benefit upon a child.

MR. A. J. FIELD, Orthopædist and Medical Electrician,

The Oxygen Treatment.

THE above Treatment has proved so extraordinarily successful at Dr. Stoker's Oxygen Home in London, MR. FIELD has thought it desirable to place its manifest advantages within reach of patients residing in the Midlands. He has made a special study of the system, and has the latest methods and apparatus. It is not necessary to eulogise here. The public press has made the merits of the Oxygen Treatment sufficiently well known. The relief of suffering that it gives, and the rapid healing it promotes, of what had hitherto been considered incurable sores, and which had resisted all other forms of treatment. Suffice it to say, Dr. Stoker's discovery is probably one of the most remarkable and beneficent of the many discoveries of Modern times.

Marvellous cures have been made in cases of Chronic Ulcer of the Leg, Old Wounds, Lupus, and Alopecia (Baldness). With regard to the latter, satisfactory results have been obtained in the treatment of the complete hair loss of Alopecia Areata.

Those suffering from any of the above diseases should consult Mr. A. J. FIELD, Orthopædist and Medical Electrician, 6, Rodney Place, Cheltenham.
