CARBON THE MIGHTY ATOM.

There is one element in Nature on which the life of every living thing, whether plant or animal, depends; that element is carbon. The work we do, indeed, every movement we make, is the result of energy stored up in the organism, the energy being proportionate to the amount of carbon consumed. In its free state carbon forms charcoal, coke, coal, blacklead, and diamond. In its combined state it is a necessary part of flesh, blood, bone, and muscle; it is the main constituent of plants. The percentage of carbon in wood exceeding that of the other elements of which wood is built, and it is also the constant component of the atmosphere where it exists as carbonic acid gas. There is practically no limit to its sway. It is found in the stars, and in almost every sample of water. The earth's crust contains vast quantities of it in chalk limestone, and marble. Such diverse substances as explosives, dyes, fuel, foods, liquors, clothes, drugs, and printers' ink; the evil smells that arise from putrefaction, and the odours of the most fragrant perfumes, are all compounds of carbon, the "element of life."—"T.P.'s Weekly."

WHERE WIDOWS ENJOY PENSIONS.

The annual report of the Bhavnagar State for 1907-8, issued by Mr. P. D. Pattani, the Dewan or Minister to the Maharajah, contains much interesting matter. Bhavnagar, which is in the province of Kathiawar, in the Bombay Presidency, has a population of over 400,000 and a revenue of nearly £300,000. Both the present and the late Maharajahs have devoted special attention to education, and several new schools and libraries were opened during the year. A system of Government pensions exists in the State, but at present they are reserved exclusively for widows.

Each founder was presented with an oak-framed certificate recording the fact, and expressing thankfulness for fifty years of faithful service. The certificate presented to Mr. Maddox can be seen in picture. Standing is Mr. C. V. Wilkins, president of the Union.

CHEAPNESS OF LIFE'S GOOD THINGS.

Meat may go up in price—it has done—but books won't. Admission to picture galleries and concerts and so forth will remain quite low. The views from Richmond Hill or Hindhead, or along Pall Mall at sunset, the smell of the earth, the taste of fruit and of kisses—these things are unaffected by the machinations of trusts and the hysteria of stock exchanges. Travel, which after books is the finest of all embroideries (and which is not to be valued by the mile but by the quality), is decidedly cheaper than ever it was. All that is required is ingenuity in one's expenditure. And much ingenuity with a little money is vastly more profitable and amusing than much money without ingenuity.—"T.P.'s Weekly."

PARADOX OF AMERICA.

Lord Milner, M. Yves Guyot, and Professor A. V. Dicey attended the conclusion of the Constitutional Congress on Saturday. Prof. Dicey said that it was the paradox of the United States that a good and noble people were governed in a way which would not be tolerated in Paris, London, or Berlin. Almost each State of the United States was not governed by the best, and was happy if it was not governed by the worst, men in the community. Washington was well administered because it was not democratically governed.

MOTIVE POWER ON THE LAND.

The time is probably not far distant when we shall see a great development of motive power as applied to agricultural operations; but the time is not yet. Our agricultural engineers have much to do still before the ordinary farmer will be able to part with his team, or even a part of it. The subject is far too large to deal with in a paragraph, but it is obvious that no farmer can hope to purchase and maintain motive power in addition to his present team, which, if skillfully managed, will partly pay for itself by the occasional sale of a good young horse for town purposes, whereas motive power is not only costly to purchase and keep in repair, but often requires renewing. Nevertheless, at this busy time of year it is often impossible to keep up with work which would pay well for doing, and to hire a set of steam tackle and rout up the bare fallows in fine hot weather before harvest begins might be worth the outlay many times over. More deep cultivation is what our heavy soils require. We might go further, and point out the wonderful effect of disintegration which liberates the stores of fertile gases contained in unbroken clods. This is a subject of which much more will be heard in the near future. —“Country Life.”

LECKHAMPTON PARISH CHURCH SPIRE.

The condition of the spire of the old Parish Church of Leckhampton has for a long time given anxious thought to the churchwardens and Church Council. Large pieces of masonry have from time to time broken away and fallen to the ground, and at one time it was thought that complete rebuilding would be necessary. Now, however, after careful examination, it has been decided to repair it if possible without pulling down, and scaffolding is being erected for that purpose. The spire dates from the 14th century, and

PENINSULAR WAR CENTENARY.

Monday was the hundredth anniversary of the battle of Roleia, the first fight of the Peninsular War. The British regiments which took part in the action under the Duke of Wellington (then Sir Arthur Wellesley) were the 5th Fusiliers, the Royal Warwickshire, the Norfolk, the Worcestershire (both the old 29th Worcestershire and old 36th Herefordshire) the Duke of Cornwall's Light Infantry, the South Staffordshire (the former 1st Staffordshire), and the 82nd Prince of Wales's Volunteers, the Sherwood Foresters, the King's Royal Rifles, the Highland Light Infantry, the Argyll Highlanders (the old 91st), and the Rifle Brigade. All these regiments, with the 20th Hussars, 2nd Queen's (Royal West Surrey), Lancashire Fusiliers, Oxfordshire Light Infantry, and Queen's Own (Royal West Kent), took part in the greater battle of Vimiera, a few days later.

By means of the X-rays, which located the teeth, a successful operation has been performed on a Douglas barman, named Andrew Keko, who swallowed his false teeth and plate while giving an exhibition of whole egg swallowing.

A "GOT AT" JURYMAN.

Lord Brampton gives, in his "Reminiscences," an extraordinary story of interference with a jurymen, which one hopes, for the sake of the reputation of the legal profession, is not wholly true. An enthusiastic young solicitor, defending for the first time a prisoner on a charge of murder, ingratiated himself with a juror-in-waiting likely to be called into the box when his client was tried. By dint of persuasion and perseverance he obtained a promise from the man that he would consent to no other verdict than that of manslaughter. The friendly juror-in-waiting was duly called into the box, and at the close of the hard-fought case the jury were unable to agree.

Sent back by the judge, the jurymen returned into court, after a long interval, with a verdict of manslaughter. "How did you manage it? Eleven for wilful murder, eh?" asked the jubilant solicitor on meeting the jurymen. "Eleven for murder! No, sir!" exclaimed the juror. "What then?" "Eleven for acquittal. You may depend upon it, sir, the other jurors had been got at."

THE HOOTIGANS.

A chauffeury chap once rode in a car,
And a baritone hooter had he.
He rounded his corners with "Umph—umph—umph!"
That road-users warned might be.

The bicycles kept their side of the road
When the chauffeur was having his fling;
And the chauffeur continued with "Umph—umph—umph!"
While the bicycles said "Ting—ting!"

Three hooterish youths rode hooterish bikes
With tyres that were fastened with string.
"How jolly," they said, "to say 'Umph—umph—umph!'"
Instead of a mere 'Ting—ting!'"

These hootigans bought three hooters that day,
The cheapest the market could show;
And they frightened old ladies with "Umph—umph—umph!"
Who thought they were cars, you know.

These hootigans rode all over the road;
And while they were staggering blind,
They suddenly heard the loud "Umph—umph—umph!"
Of the chauffeury chap behind.

"Don't give him an inch," the hootigans said,
"It's only some chap on a crook,
Who is playing like us with a 'Umph—umph—umph!'"

— — — — — ! ! ! ! !

Those dashes denote the shock.

That chauffeury chap quite flattened them out;
And this song to a finish I bring,
With the coonier's verdict of "Umph—umph—umph!"
And the cemetery bell's "Ting—ting!"
—FRED GILLET (in "Cycling.")

QUAINT CORK CEREMONY.

The ancient ceremony under the charter of the Cork Corporation, known as "The Throwing of the Dart," was on Monday performed by the Lord Mayor, Mr. Donovan. Under the charter the Lord Mayor is Admiral of the Port, and it is provided that once in every three years he should, in order to assert his authority, proceed to sea and throw the dart in the sea on a line between two outlying headlands, which define the harbour limits. The ceremony is made the medium of a picnic, to which the Lord Mayor invites all the members of the municipality and other local bodies, and they were taken to the sea line, where the dart and arrow, decorated with the shamrock and bearing the civic arms, were formally cast into the sea by the Lord Mayor, amid cheers.

REV. J. REID HOWATT ON GOOD RESOLUTIONS.

There are people who sneer at good intentions and say they are of no use, for they are sure to be broken. Don't listen to stuff of this sort, for it is stuff. You may as well say that a man with a gun shouldn't take aim, for he will miss the mark anyhow. Perhaps he may, but it is certain he will miss it oftener if he doesn't practise aiming. It is much the same with good intentions: the boy or girl who never makes a good resolution will never make anything else. The ship cannot be steered by one turn of the wheel; it is always yawing and veering from the course; but it is a dead certainty that if the wheel isn't always pulling it up smartly when it would glide aside, the ship will never get anywhere but on the rocks. It is little better with us; if there is anything we want to do, or anything good and great we want to be, we must first make up our minds as to what we want, and then be always holding ourselves well in hand, so that if we fail in our good intention to-day we shall pick it up more determinedly to-morrow, and so keep doggedly on to our purpose. But I wouldn't make too many good resolutions at once; it isn't wise to "wind ourselves too high for mortal man beneath the sky." Just a few—as many as we can manage at a time; when we have got these well in hand we shall be abler and stronger to tackle others.—"Sunday at Home."

THE MISTAKEN WOODPECKER.

Red-headed woodpeckers cost the Western Union Telegraph Company thousands of dollars every year. They steal the property of the company, and this is how they do it. They hear the humming of the wires, but not being highly educated they mistake the sound for that made by grubs boring in the wood. Now a grub looks about as good to a lean woodpecker as a Delmonico dinner to a hungry tramp, and having decided that the humming noise denotes the presence of a square meal, the woodpeckers set about to discover a way to corral it. The fever of the grub rush began a good many years ago, when the first telegraph poles were set up, and ever since the deluded birds have been drilling holes in them, trying to discover the location of the humming sound.
