"DO YOU REMEMBER?"

The entrance to the Old Market Place, Cheltenham, from the High Street, taken about fifty years ago. It is now the entrance into Bennington Street. Photo shows the Centre Stone, now removed to the shop on right. The "Free Press" Office was on the other corner; that of course was removed to St. George's Hall, on other side of street.

A LINK WITH THE PAST.

We recently published a Photograph entitled "Do You Remember?" showing the Old Market Place and "Centre Stone," Cheltenham, about 50 years ago. When this was demolished a new building was erected on the same site, and, as the above Picture shows, the "Centre Stone" was incorporated in it. This building is the shop at the corner of High Street and Bennington Street, now occupied by Mr. Chas. Watts, the well-known Men's and Boys' Clothier and Outfitter, "Centre Stone," 148a High Street, Cheltenham.

AUTUMN'S MESSAGE.

AUTUMN creeps in quietly, unobtrusively, and the change of Season is hardly realised until it is well advanced. But the alteration in tints and the shorter evenings carry a message for those who will hear. They whisper of cooler nights—and days—and such a necessity as a new Coat.

Ladies of foresight are visiting our Showrooms now, for they know that to buy early is to buy the best, because the selection is the largest, the choice more leisurely. They visit Vanderplank because their collection is unrivalled, and the prices charged no more than those for Coats of less distinction.

We invite you to see them.

B817.—This attractive Coat is one of a large range which we have at this price. Tailored from a fine quality Velour cloth, with Mole Coney Collar and Cuffs, double-breasted style, with inverted Pleats from pockets. It is half-lined, and is remarkable value at 75/9. In Mulberry, Green, and Fawn, Grey, Navy, Black, etc. In all sizes.

If unable to call, write for Autumn and Winter Catalogue.

The Banns That Were Forgotten.

Through "somebody's" fault—whose is a matter of argument—the omission to publish the banns of marriage in the bride's parish caused the postponement of a fashionable wedding which was to have taken place at St. Stephen's Church, Cheltenham, on Tuesday afternoon. All the guests had assembled, and the omission was only discovered just before the bride's start from home. The reception took place, and the couple—Mr. Mark Mainwaring Lee Currie, I.S.C. (retired), of 26 Lansdown-place, and Miss Eva Flora Burlton-Bennet, of St. Denys—were married early on Wednesday morning by license at the same church.
