A LOVELY CAMP

A number of Girl Guides from the 17th Cheltenham (Bethesda) Troop are camping this week on a beautiful spot at the top of Mill-lane, on the side of Cleeve Hill. The views are delightful, water is plentiful, wood easily obtainable, and the spot is as remote from the crowd as any old-time hermit need desire. A few of the party.

HOWLETT & HONEYSETT

ONE HUNDRED YEARS OF BUSINESS!
CHELTENHAM FIRM'S RECORD

The firm of William Howlett, of 14 Clarence-street, Cheltenham, this year complete a century's connection with the town. The business can be traced back to John Howlett, watch and clock maker, of London, who is mentioned in F. J. Britten's monumental work, "Old Clocks and Watches and their Makers," as the maker of a gold watch in the Schloss collection, dated 1770. Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Honeysett (nee Howlett) endeavour, in spite of the modern tendency to mechanical mass production, to keep up the tradition of the Howlett family for craftsmanship. Howlett's have been in charge of the clock in the tower of Cheltenham's old Parish Church for nearly the whole of the century's history of their house in the Garden Town.
