BURROW'S SPORTS

BURROW'S SPORTS CLUB, the very active Sports Organisation maintained by Ed. J. Burrow and Co., Ltd., of Cheltenham and London, with their Associated Houses, Burrow's Press, Cheltenham Press, and Norman Sawyer and Co., Ltd., recently carried through a very successful evening's sports meeting at their beautiful ground in Moorend Grove. The very high degree of athletic prowess presented and the manner in which all the events were brought off tended to emphasise greatly the already more than national reputation for efficiency and quality which this progressive firm enjoys in the production of guide books, travel publications and high-class colour printing generally. A further very attractive meeting has been arranged for Wednesday next when, in addition to Inter business house competitions between Burrow's Sports Club and teams representing Sunningend, the Gas Co., the Original Brewery and the Corporation, a programme of Club championships for the Cheltenham and County Harriers will be staged.

- 1.—A line of competitors.
- 2.—Miss M. Gabb (Imperial House) winning ladies' half-mile walking race.

THE HILLMAN MINX, THE QUEEN OF SMALL CARS

The Hillman Minx, although comparatively a recent production, has intrigued light car enthusiasts to a remarkable degree, owing to its wonderful performance and exceptionally roomy comfort. It embodies many features of outstanding merit; briefly, acceleration, handiness in steering and control; flexibility of engine, and chassis "cushioned power"; economical running cost (40 m.p.g.). Price of Family Saloon, £159. The demand exceeds the supply, but cars ordered now will be delivered in strict rotation. This photograph shows some of the Hillman cars recently supplied by the old-established firm of H. E. Steel (Himself), the well-known Automobile Engineer, who is sole County Distributor for these world-famous Hillman cars. Only address: Queen's Garage, Cheltenham.

PICTURESQUE GLOUCESTERSHIRE. — MATSON

Matson is a small parish about two miles from Gloucester, between that city and Upton St. Leonards. It possesses a most interesting manor house, which was occupied by King Charles I. and his two elder sons during the siege of Gloucester. It is now owned and occupied by Lt.-Col. Geo. Dunstan Timmis, and a brass plate in the house commemorates this event. 1.—The east front of Matson House from the garden. 2.—The lake and grounds. The lake contains many large carp and is covered with water lilies. 3.—The old stable yard. Heraldic arms are carved on the walls, mostly belonging to the Selwyn family. 4.—The house and grounds from Robinswood Hill, on the slopes of which it is situated. Photographs. GLOUCESTERSHIRE SCHOOLS AND SCHOLARS.—CHRIST CHURCH, CHELTENHAM, INFANTS' SCHOOL

This school, which is now under the control of the Cheltenham Education Authority, was established by Christ Church authorities and still belongs to them. It has a delightful lot of pupils, all very tiny. The children are, however, well disciplined and behaved and are under the care of Miss E. M. Dunn (headmistress) and two assistant mistresses. At the recent Cheltenham Musical Festival, the children of this school won the Education Committee's Challenge Cup.

1.—The second class.

2.—First Class.

The classes are divided up by ages.

3.—The Third Class, with Miss J. Houghton, assistant mistress.

A NEW FRONT FOR AN OLD FIRM

A very fine shop front has been completed for the well-known firm of Drake and Co., Winchcombe-street, Cheltenham, replacing the older section of their premises. It has been designed to show principally dress and furnishing fabrics and household linens. The window framing is of bronze metal with blue pearl granite bases and pilasters with a black glass fascia with white letters, and window enclosures and panels of polished oak. The spacious lobby floor is of terrazzo, and the reconstruction gives more than double the previous window frontage. The Cheltenham Shopfitting Company were entrusted with the contract, and the result adds one more to the successful alterations of a similar nature which they have carried out.

REV R. E. A. LLOYD, who has been a curate at the Parish Church and St. Matthew's Church during the past two and a half years, is leaving on Monday next for a curacy of New Malden. A presentation was made to him on Tuesday last from the Young Men's Club.

PRETTY CHELTENHAM WEDDING

The marriage took place at St. Gregory's R.C. Church, on September 10th, of Mr. Wm. Paish Mitten, of Loughboro-place, Charlton Kings, Cheltenham, to Miss Edith Holder, of Mayville, St. James's-square, Cheltenham. The wedded pair.

PRINCESS NATHALIE TROUBETSKY, the well-known lecturer and writer, who is giving a series of talks on beauty culture at the Trades Exhibition at Cheltenham Town Hall until Friday next. She is a popular contributor to the topical press on many subjects.
