CHELLENHAM FROM THE AIR.—NO. 4: CHARLTON KINGS DISTRICT

This view is taken looking west towards Cheltenham, which can be seen in the distance. The straight road running from the left is the Cirencester-road, and its junction with London-road near Holy Apostles' Church can be seen at the top centre of the photograph. The big white house near the junction is Charlton House. The road in centre is Little Herbert-road, merging into Horsefair-street, before joining Lyefield road, W., near Cirencester road. To the right of this road and in front are the allotments which surround the Cemetery. The white patch in centre is the school playground, to the left of this is Charlton Kings Church, and the straight row of houses just beyond is Copt Elm-road. On the left is the beautifully wooded Charlton Park. The house can just be seen in the middle of the trees. Photograph by Aerofilms, Ltd. ### INTERESTING NOTGROVE WEDDING

A very pretty autumn wedding took place at St. Bartholomew's Church, Notgrove, on Saturday, when Miss Stella Dorothy Church, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Church, of Notgrove, was married to Mr. Stephen F. Wickham, only son of Mr. J. R. Wickham and the late Mrs. Wickham, of Newbury. The bridal party leaving the church. The three bridesmaids were sisters of the bride.

ROSE COTTAGE, CHEDWORTH, NOW OF MICHIGAN, U.S.A.

This cottage, formerly of Chedworth, Gloucestershire, was bought by Mr. Edsel Ford, taken down, carried to America and rebuilt by Cotswold workmen at Mr. Henry Ford's Greenfield Village, Mich., U.S.A., some years ago. Something of a stir was made in the English Press at the time. It was visited this summer by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Holder, both of whom were born in Cheltenham, Glos., but who have lived in Canada for the past 22 years. In the snap they are standing at the gate. They kindly sent us on the picture for publication, in the "Chronicle and Graphic," of which they are constant readers. The cottage originally consisted of two individual homes. It has been furnished throughout with furniture of the 16th Century. Leather pitchers, or jugs, very rare wooden trenchers, a Bible chest, and several valuable books of that period are included. Heating is from the open fireplace.

REV. W. B. WILSON, B.A., B.D.,
minister of Charlton Kings Baptist Church for the past nine years, who has left to take charge of a Newcastle-under-Lyme group of churches, was given a very hearty God-speed and farewell by all his friends in this district.

PICTURESQUE GLOUCESTERSHIRE—WINSTONE

Winstone is an interesting little village lying to the south of Ermin Street, the old Roman road from Gloucester to Cirencester, and is six and a half miles from Cirencester. Winstone was intended to have been part of the dower of Queen Catherine, had she survived King Henry VIII.; but it was afterwards granted by the Crown to the Tames, the benefactors of Fairford. Sir Edmund Tame, who is buried in Fairford Church, was the owner of Winstone when he died in the 26th year of Henry VIIIth's reign. In the year 1779 Rudder says the inhabitants numbered 160.

- 1.—The fine old church of St. Bartholomew. It was "restored" in 1876 at a cost of £975, but much Norman work still remains.
- 2.—A wonderful arched cart shed, almost unique in its style in this neighbourhood—the old dovescotes in the barn are typical of its age.
- 3.—The Mason's Arms, generally known as Beech Pike, an ancient and picturesque hostelry on the Ermin Street; the street can be seen stretching away in its extreme straight line.
- 4.—The Baptist Chapel in the village—evidently a transformed Cotswold building.

A CUB-HUNTING MEET OF THE COTSWOLDS

The Cotswold Hounds met at the Old Elm, Churchdown, on Tuesday, for cub hunting. Mr. Heber-Percy, M.F.H., was in command and there was quite a large field.

- 1.—The Joint Master, Mr. Heber Percy, M.F.H., chatting to Mrs. Seeley at the meet.
- 2.—Mr. Tom Marston (left) and a friend.
- 3.—An old and respected Churchdown resident, Mr. Gilks, looks on. He was stationmaster of Churchdown for 36 years and has resided there since his retirement 12 years ago.
- 4.—Some of the foot-folk; Miss Palmer on right.
- 5.—The pack arriving at the meet.
- 6.—Some of the mounted followers.
- 7.—Miss Byng-Morris.

Heller Nicholls, Mr. Herbert Sumsion, Mr. Percy Bolton, The Mayoress, the Mayor of Cheltenham, Mr. Basil Allchin, F.R.C.M., F.K.C.O. (registrar of R.C.M.), Capt. R. J. P. Humphrey, Mr. Lewis Hann.

ALL THE FUN OF THE FAIR AT TEWKESBURY

Tewkesbury Fair was held last week in High-street, Barton-street and Church-street. Only room for one-way traffic was reserved, the rest of the streets being taken up with shows, roundabouts, etc.

- 1.—Roasting a whole pig in Barton-street in aid of the Hospital. The Mayor (Mr. R. Gaze) is basting the pig, and on left, with pitchfork, is Mr. W. H. Wilkins, of Barton-street, who gave the pig. Between them is Mr. F. Tyler, of Stratford-on-Avon, the champion roaster.
- 2.—Ladies working the hospital "ward" in High-street.
- 3.—Mr. H. J. Balchin (Bristol Tramways Co.) consults Gypsy Smith as to his bowling future. Two friends keenly interested—on right is Mr. Embling, of Worcester.
- 4.—Starting a race in East-street.
- 5.—The War Memorial surrounded by roundabouts.
- 6.—Kiddies having a ride on children's "roundabout."
- 7.—Interested in the pig roast.
- 8.—Outside one of the shows.

LADY HAIG IN CHELTENHAM

Lady Haig visited Cheltenham on Monday and received a cordial welcome at an "At Home" given at St. Luke's Hall, by the Cheltenham branch of the British Legion and the local women's section. There was a large and representative company present. From left: Mrs. Stratford Burton, Mrs. R. H. Moore (hon. secretary), Major H. S. L. Wolley, Lady Haig, Maj. Stanley Clarke (president of Cheltenham branch of the British Legion), Col. H. de Haga Haig.

A FINE WASP'S NEST.

This nest of the common wasp was found in the house of Mr. F. Ecroyd, Keynsham-road, by whom it was preserved. It was suspended on a beam in the roof. The comb, the work of the unaided queen, can be seen in the aperture which fitted round the joist supporting the nest. The wall of the nest is particularly thick compared with nests built in the ground. The comb structure is plainly exhibited.

TWO FINE PRIZE-WINNING TIBETAN DOGS

Sona and Satru, the noted Tibetan golden Lhasa Apsos, the property of Miss M. Wild, of "Roqueburne," 2 Sydenham Road, Cheltenham. At championship shows at the Kennel Club, Ladies' Kennel Association and Richmond they have gained ten first prizes, two challenge trophies, silver medal and cup for best brace. These dogs are considered by many good judges to be the best brace of Lhasa Apsos at present in the country. In general appearance this breed is not unlike the small, long-haired goats of Tibet—Apso meaning "goat-like." Sona and Satru are direct descendants of the dogs brought to England in 1928 by Colonel Bailey, at one time political officer in that country. Puppies may be available later. Particulars on request.

CHELTENHAM FROM THE AIR.—NO. 5: CENTRAL CHELTENHAM

This view, looking west, shows the Winter Garden in the centre of the picture, with the New Club in the top left corner of the same quadrangle, and the Town Hall adjoining. The Promenade is recognised as four rows of trees, closely planted, and it is hardly credible there is such a wide roadway beneath them. In the central foreground is Montpellier Gardens, with all its tennis courts looking like a draught board, and the band stand at bottom like a small umbrella. Spa Buildings is the row of houses between Montpellier and the Winter Gardens, the Queen's Hotel standing out on the left of the block. The Ladies' College buildings form the rectangle on the left centre.
