Inspired by what you see above and by what you read in the following pages?

It is never too early to think about writing something for the next Journal, 43 (2027)

(deadline 30 November, for publication the following March).

I am always happy to receive drafts or help to develop new ideas for articles based on your interests and research. A style-guide for authors is available on our website or directly from me. It is worth looking at this before proceeding too far with your writing.
